You probably have taken the action to decline to revise this paper COIS-D-21-00111R1; however, there has been no changes in the status.

There must have been a glitch in the EM system; nevertheless, we have already made a request from the system administrator for further checking and resolving.

Dear Dr. Sulaeman,

Good day.

We are contacting you again because of the below concern.

We noticed that the only complete Word file with the entire manuscript is named Revised Author COIS-D-21-00127R1, and it contains the manuscript twice. The first part does not have comments, and the second part of the manuscript has the article again, but with the author's comments to the reviewers. The Word file is 46 pages; the paper ends on page 22, followed by the comments to the reviewers on pages 23-24, and then the paper begins again with the Abstract on page 25. Please advise how to proceed.

We appreciate it much if you could respond to this e-mail within today, thank you.

Warm regards,
